2            CLAIMS

3            Notice of Non-Compliant Amendment - from the Examiner December 5, 2005

4            The Examiner has stated in the Office Action of December 5, 2005, that Each
5            claim has not been provided with the proper status identifier. Your applicant has set out
6            the claims with the Status Identifiers as indicated in the Examiner's Action. Your 7            applicant respectfully requests that this Amendment and Response be found to abide with 8            the requirements of the Action and to allow the claims to be prosecuted on the merits.

9            The Examiner, in Continuation of 4(e) Other, notes that none of the Amendments 10          and Responses have been entered for 3/18/05, 5/31/05, 6/7/05 and 9/19/05. Your 11          applicant has addressed each of the indicated Amendments and Responses and 12          respectfully requests that prosecution of this application proceed on the merits.

13          The Examiner has noted in particular claim 8. Your applicant believes that the 14          reference has been addressed and asks the Examiner to examine the application on the 15          merits.

18          Claim Rejections under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) FROM OFFICE ACTION 10/18/04 AS 19          RESPONDED TO 3/18/05

20          1. Comments Regarding Foresi: At page 3 of the Examiner's Action OF 21          10/18/04 the Examiner has rejected Claims 8-9 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being 22          anticipated by Foresi. The Examiner states that Foresi discloses a putter apparatus having 23          an upper shaft (30) with a counter weight in the form of a grip (33) proximal to an end
24          (Fig. 5), and a grip clip means in the form of a clamp affixed with a hinge means at an 25          apparatus upper shaft second end (Fig. 8).

28          No. 10/660,223, on December 9, 2005 by
Floyd E. Ivey in response to Office Action
of December 5, 2005.

1       The Examiner's attention is drawn to Foresi relative to the disclosure and claim of 2 a bend (42) in the elongated member (30). The bend (42) is seen in Foresi at Fig. 3, 4, 5, 3 6, 7 and 8, is described in the Detained Description at column 4/lines 40-57 and is 4 claimed in Claim 1, column 6/lines 34-38.

5       The invention of your present applicant does not disclose or depict or claim a 6 "bend (42)" corresponding to that of Foresi.

7       Foresi claims, in claim 1, "

8       ...and the curve in the bent section and the angle of the member with respect to the 9 shaft of the putter when rigidly attached thereto being such that the proximal end may be comfortably nestled under the golfer's armpit throughout the pendulum-like swing.

11      The Examiner is referred to the statement of the law under 35 U.S.C. 102, as 12 follows, regarding "... any degree of physical difference between the patented product and the prior art, no matter how slight, defeats the claim of anticipation." American 13 Permahedge, Inc. v. Barcana, Inc., 857 F. Supp. 308, 32 USPQ2d 1801, 1807-08 (S.D.
14 N.Y. 1994) infra.

15      Claim 8 has been amended to state in part "said upper shaft (10) having adequate 16 length to contact the side of the player's neck:" Antecedent basis for this amendment is 17 found at Specification page 2/lines 19-20.

19      The rejection under Foresi has been addressed and the structure and claims of 20 Foresi has been demonstrated to differ from that specified and claimed by your applicant.
21 Accordingly, the Examiner is respectfully requested to withdraw the rejection under 22 Foresi and to allow claims 8 and 9.
23

24      2. Comments Regarding Smith: At page 4 of the Examiner's Action the 25 Examiner has rejected Claim 8 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Smith.
26

27      Certificate of facsimile filing, Application
28 No. 10/660,233, on December 9, 2005 by
Floyd E. Ivey in response to Office Action
of December 5, 2005.

1 The Examiner states that Smith discloses a club apparatus able to be used as a putter
2 having an upper shaft with a counter weight in the form of a grip proximal to an end (Fig.
3 1), and a grip clip means in the form of a clamp affixed with a hinge means at an 4 apparatus upper shaft second end (Figs. 1-2).

5 The Examiner's attention is drawn to Smith relative to the disclosure and claims
6 wherein Smith neither discloses or claims a counter weight. The invention of your 7 present applicant does disclose and claims a "counter weight". The Examiner is referred 8 to the statement of the law under 35 U.S.C. 102, as follows, regarding "... any degree of physical difference between the patented product and the prior art, no matter how slight, defeats the claim of anticipation." American Permahedge, Inc. v. Barcana, Inc., 10 857 F. Supp. 308, 32 USPQ2d 1801, 1807-08 (S.D. N.Y. 1994) infra.

12 The rejection under Smith has been addressed and the structure and claims of 13 Smith have been demonstrated to differ from that specified and claimed by your 14 applicant. Accordingly, the Examiner is respectfully requested to withdraw the rejection
15 under Smith and to allow claim 8.

17       3. Comments Regarding Schuster: At page 4 of the Examiner's Action the 18 Examiner has rejected Claim 8 under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Schuster.
19 The Examiner states that Schuster discloses a putter apparatus having an upper shaft (4)
20 with a counter weight in the form of a pad (8) proximal to an end (Fig. 1), and a grip clip
21 means in the form of a clamp (12) affixed with a hinge means at an apparatus upper shaft
22 second end (Figs. 1-2).

23 The Examiner's attention is drawn to Schuster relative to the stated disclosure and 24 or claim of a counter weight. The Examiner equates the "counter weight" of your present 25 invention with a "pad" (8) of Schuster. The pad (8) is seen in Schuster at Fig. 1, 2, 5, 7

of December 5, 2005.

1 and 8, is described in the Detailed Description at column 5/lines 18-20 stating "...

2 A forearm cradle pad 8 is mounted coaxial at the bar's curved end, creating a 3 forearm cradle assembly 6.

4 And in claim 10 there is claimed "...said bar contains a pad at its distal end to comfort the 5 player."

6 There is no structural relationship between the "counter weight" of your present
7 invention and the "pad (8)" of Schuster. The "pad (8)" of Schuster is not a weight.

8 The invention of your present applicant does not disclose or depict or claim a 9 "pad". Schuster does not disclose or depict or claim a "weight" corresponding to the 10 counter weight of the present invention. The Examiner is referred to the statement of the 11 law under 35 U.S.C. 102, as follows, regarding "... any degree of physical difference 12 between the patented product and the prior art, no matter how slight, defeats the 13 claim of anticipation." American Permahedge, Inc. v. Barcana, Inc., 857 F. Supp. 308, 14 32 USPQ2d 1801, 1807-08 (S.D. N.Y. 1994) infra.

17 Claim 8 has been amended to state "said upper shaft (10) having adequate length
18 to contact the side of the player's neck;" thereby further distinguishing the present
19 invention from Schuster. Antecedent basis for this amendment is found at Specification 20 page 2/lines 19-20.

22 The rejection under Schuster has been addressed and the structure and claims of 23 Schuster has been demonstrated to differ from that specified and claimed by your 24 applicant. Accordingly, the Examiner is respectfully requested to withdraw the rejection

14 Your applicant respectfully contends that such identity is lacking between your

The applicant hereafter demonstrates differences between features of the 19 referenced prior art and the present invention as specified and claimed. The applicant 20 presents features of the present invention which are not found within the claims of 21 referenced patents. The applicant has presented law and argument to support the 22 contention that the rejection of under 35 U.S.C. 102 should be withdrawn and now
23 respectfully requests the Examiner to withdraw the rejections.

4       4. Comments re: Smith in view of Hannon: The Examiner states at page 4
5 paragraph 8 that Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable
6 over Smith in view of Hannon. The Examiner states that "Smith lacks a putter
7 shaft...Hannon discloses a club being a putter...In view of the patent of Hannon it would
8 have been obvious to modify the apparatus and club of Smith to include a putter in order
9 to utilize the advantages of having two handles for swinging a club for a putter club.
10

11       First, Smith has been demonstrated to not anticipate your present invention.

12       Further, the attributes described by the Examiner do not correspond to the attributes and 13 structure of the present invention.
14

15       The Examiner's attention is drawn to the essence of the present invention. The 16 "upper shaft (10)" of the present invention is not a "handle" to be grasped or which 17 functions as a "handle" to assist in swinging a club or a putter. The "said upper shaft (10)
18 having adequate length to contact the side of the player's neck." functions as a training 19 prompt and is not a handle to be grasped.
20

21       Smith teaches a "handle" to be grasped for swinging of the club. Hannon teaches 22 a putter. Neither Smith or Hannon, separately or in combination, teach the training 23 structure of your present invention. There is no motivation shown to combine Smith and 24 Hannon.

28 No. 10/660,223, on December 9, 2005 by

of December 5, 2005.

1       The rejection under Smith in view of Hannon has been addressed, the structure
2 and claims of Smith have been distinguished from your present invention. Claim 8 has 3 been amended. Neither Smith or Hannon, separately or in combination, teach, direct or 4 suggest the structure of claims 9-11 and there is no motivation shown to combine.
6 Accordingly, the Examiner is respectfully requested to withdraw the rejection under 7 Smith in view of Hannon and to allow claims 9-11.

10      5. Comments re: Smith in view of Hannon and further in view of Foresi.

11      Tucker and Cline: The Examiner states at page 5 paragraph 10 that Claims 5, 12-14 are 12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith in view of Hannon and 13 further in view of Foresi, Tucker and Cline. The Examiner is referred to the comments
14 re: Smith in view of Hannon.

15
16      Claim 8 has been amended to state "said upper shaft (10) having adequate length 17 to contact the side of the player's neck;"

18
19      The structure of Foresi and Smith have been distinguished from that of the present 20 invention. Smith in view of Foresi does not render the present invention obvious per the 21 preceding argument. Tucker discloses a clip. Cline discloses a clamp/clip tapering from 22 one end to the other.

23
24      It is respectfully submitted that Smith in view of Foresi and further in view of 25 Tucker and Cline does not teach, direct or suggest your present invention per claims 5 and

6 6. Comments re: Sosin in view of Foresi, Smith, Hannon, Tucker and Cline:

7 The Examiner states at page 7 paragraph 11 that Claims 5 and 7-14, all claims including
8 apparatus and method, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 9 Sosin in view of Foresi, Smith, Hannon, Tucker and Cline. Claim 8 has been amended to 10 state “said upper shaft (10) having adequate length to contact the side of the player's 11 neck:”
12

13 The Examiner states that Sosin discloses a method of putting by positioning an 14 upper end of a shaft in contact with a golfer's neck and retaining the upper shaft in 15 contact with a golfer's neck through out the stroke (claim 1). Your applicant respectfully 16 understands that the reference here to “(claim 1)” is to that of Sosin in that Claim 1 of 17 your applicant's application has been cancelled in the Applicant's Amendment and 18 Response of 8/12/04.
19

21 The Examiner's attention is respectfully drawn again to Sosin. The word neck is 22 not found in claim 1. Claim 1 of Sosin is a method which places the golf shaft on the 23 golfer's shoulder. The Examiner will see the claim of a method of claim 1 is:
24

25 A method of putting, comprising:
26

addressing a golf ball in a sidesaddle stance;
2 swinging a putter having an elongated shaft; controlling the putter during the 3 putting swing from at least three points of contact, wherein said at least three 4 points of contact comprises;
5 the contact points of both hands, and the contact point of the shaft on a golfer's shoulder. "

The word neck, in Sosin, is found with reference to a bend in the neck of the club, proximal the club head, as shown in Fig. 8. Claim 1 of Sosin, a method claim, is distinctly distinguished from the method Claim 7 of the present invention which states:

10 7. (Previously amended) A method of training a golfer in putting or of putting by means of the golf putter training apparatus of claim 13 comprising the steps of:
11 a. receiving the upper shaft 10 at the grip clip (40) via the grip clip slot (42) by the putter lower shaft intermediate the putter head (100) and the golf putter 12 grip (75) and moving the upper-shaft (10) to grip affixing means contact of the grip clip (40) with the golf putter grip (75); 13 b. affixing the angular relationship (110) between the putter lower shaft (72) and the upper shaft (10) by adjusting the hinge means (42);
14 c. positioning the upper shaft first end (20) in contact with the golfer's neck (21); 15 d. training the golfer to execute the proper putting stroke and or making a putting stroke by the golfer sensing and retaining the upper shaft first end (20) in contact 16 with the golfer's neck (21) throughout the putting stroke.
17

18 It is respectfully submitted that the method of Sosin, having a "contact point of the 19 shaft on a golfer's shoulder." teaches away from the apparatus of your present invention 20 at claim 8 and the method claim at claim 7.
21

It has been shown that the structures of Foresi and Smith are distinguished from the structure of the present invention. Additionally, the present invention was not found obvious in view of Hannon, Tucker and Cline.

1       The rejection under Sosin in view of Foresi, Smith, Hannon, Tucker and Cline
2 has been addressed, the structure and claims of Foresi and Smith have been distinguished 3 from your present invention. Claim 8 has been amended. Sosin teaches away from the 4 present invention. Sosin, Foresi, Smith, Hannon, Tucker and Cline, separately or in 5 combination, do not teach, direct or suggest the structure or method of claims 5 and 7-14.
6 Additionally, there is no motivation shown to combine. Accordingly, the Examiner is 7 respectfully requested to withdraw the rejection and to allow claims 5 and 7-14.

11 LAW REGARDING 35 U.S.C. 103.

12       The absence of a feature similar to the feature or features of the present invention
13 are respectfully argued as references which teach away from the disclosed and claimed
14 invention and thus are not appropriately a basis of rejection under 103. In re Gurley 27
15 F.3d 551 at 553(1994 cafc). In general a reference will teach away if the line of 16 development flowing from the references disclosure is unlikely to be productive of the 17 result sought by the applicant. The disclosures and claims of the cited prior art, 18 separately, in combination and in view of, do not flow toward the invention of your 19 present applicant. The prior art cited do not teach, direct or suggest the structural 20 characteristics or the method of the present invention. The structure of your applicant's 21 invention as disclosed and claimed is not taught and the structures of the prior art cited 22 flow toward other compositions differing from that of your application.

The Examiner has urged prior art alone and in combination as rendering obvious the present invention. However, there is not demonstrated teaching, suggestion or motivation to so combine the several components in the manner done by your present applicant. Such recitation of prior art does not form a basis for rejection as obvious. In re Kotzab, 217 F.3d 1365, 1369-70 (C.A.Fed. 2000); *C.R. Bard, Inc. v. 17           Obviousness is a legal conclusion based on underlying facts of four general 18 types, all of which must be considered by the trier of fact: (1) the scope and 19 content of the prior art; (2) the level of ordinary skill in the art; (3) the

1 parameters of the patented invention. There must be a teaching or 2 suggestion within the prior art, or within the general knowledge of a 3 person of ordinary skill in the field of the invention, to look to particular 4 sources of information, to select particular elements, and to combine them
5 in the way they were combined by the inventor. See Heidelberger
6 Druckmaschinen AG v. Hantscho Commercial Prods., Inc., 21 F.3d 1068,
7 1072, 30 U.S.P.Q.2d 1377, 1379 (Fed.Cir.1994) ("When the patented
8 invention is made by combining known components to achieve a new 9 system, the prior art must provide a suggestion or motivation to make such a combination."); Northern Telecom, Inc. v. Datapoint Corp., 908 F.2d 931, 10 935, 15 U.S.P.Q.2d 1321, 1324 (Fed.Cir.1990) (the prior art must suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art the desirability of the claimed composition);

13 We first look at the "known properties of the active ingredients" and compare
14 'functions in prior art with functions in the present invention'. If the prior art is sufficient 15 to show these characteristics then we move to the "hindsight reconstruction" analysis.

16 Does any prior art suggest the combinations presented by your applicant.

17 It is insufficient that prior art discloses components of a patented device, either 18 separately or in other combinations. Also "there must be some teaching, suggestion, or 19 incentive to make the combination made by the inventor.". Thus...[for obviousness the 20 Examiner] must have some evidence that the components claimed to be obvious both 21 existed at the time of your applicant's invention and combining them as your applicant
22 has done was suggested or taught by the prior art. Aero Industries, Inc. v. John Donovan

6 REMARKS REGARDING REJECTIONS AND AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

8 Claim Rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112 1. At page 2 of the Examiner's Action of 5/26/05
9 the Examiner has rejected Claims 5, 7 and 11-14 under 35 U.S.C. 112 as being 10 indefinite. The Examiner states that the term "may" in lines 5 and 8 in claim 11 are 11 indefinite in that it is uncertain whether the limitation being referred to is required or not.

12 Claim 11 has been amended to strike "may be".
13

14 The Examiner states that the terms "equivalent materials" in claim 11 is 15 indefinite. The terms "equivalent materials" in claim 11 has been stricken and amended at 16 lines 8-9 to state "...plastics[,] and metals and other equivalent materials; hinge means .. ."
17 and amended at line 17 to state "... materials[,] and metals and other equivalent 18 materials."

19 The Examiner states, at page 2 that Claim 13 is indefinite in that in lines 4-5 it 20 is uncertain what the statement "proximal the apparatus first end being greater than the 21 grip clip second end dimension D2" means. Claim 13 has been amended to state "... and 22 the golf putter grip dimension D4 (64), proximal the apparatus first end (20) ... being 23 greater than the grip clip second end dimension D2 (62); ...". It is submitted that the 24 phrase means that the golf putter grip dimension D4 (64), which is proximal the apparatus

of December 5, 2005.

1 first end (20), is greater than the dimension of the grip clip second end dimension D2
2 (62).

3 At page 2-3, the Examiner states that claim 13 is indefinite in that the terms
4 "other forms" and "other similar" are indefinite and that it is uncertain what the limit of 5 this claim is to these elements of structure. Claim 13 has been amended to strike the terms 6 "other forms" and "other similar" as follows: ". . . b. the grip affixing means to affix the 7 grip clip means (40) also includes other forms of gripping including a spring secured
8 clam shell structure allowing the grip clip means (40) to be opened to allow the grip clip .
9 . slot (65) to receive a golf putter grip (75) and other similar friction affixing and or clamp
10 affixing structures."

11 The Examiner states at page 4 that Claim 14 is indefinite in that the statement 12 "the apparatus at the clip slot will receive either the apparatus shaft to slide up the 13 apparatus shaft toward the apparatus first end". It is respectfully noted that the phrase is 14 found in the specification at page 6, lines 4-8 where the following is found:

15 The apparatus (5) at the grip clip slot (65) will receive either the apparatus shaft 16 (10) to slide up the apparatus shaft (10) toward the apparatus first end (20) and 17 receive and be affixed at the golf putter grip (75) or the grip clip slot (65) will 18 receive the golf putter grip (75) and be affixed by affixing means for use in 19 putting.

20 It is respectfully submitted that the meaning is that the grip clip form which has

1 a fixed clip slot dimension will fit over the tapered golf shaft proximal the second end
2 (90) and will slip up the shaft toward the first end (20) for a friction fit at the grip. An
3 alternative form of the grip clip having a spring secured clam shell form will be spring
4 operated and will directly be affixed to the putter grip (75).

6 The Examiner states at page 3 that Claim 7 is indefinite in that throughout the 7 claim it appears that the putter shaft is being referred to as reference number 10 which is 8 the apparatus shaft. Claim 7 has been amended as follows:

10 a. receiving the ~~upper shaft (10)~~ apparatus (5) at the grip clip (40) via the grip
11 clip slot (42) by the putter lower shaft (72) intermediate the putter head (100) 12 and the golf putter grip (75) and moving the ~~upper shaft (10)~~ apparatus (5) to 13 grip affixing means contact of the grip clip (40) with the golf putter grip (75); b.
14 affixing the angular relationship (110) between the putter lower shaft (72)
15 and the ~~upper shaft (10)~~ apparatus (5) by adjusting the hinge means (42);
16

17 At page 3 the Examiner states that reference numbers in claim 7 are without 18 parentheses. The amendment of claim 7 has remedied this lack of parentheses.
19

20 Your applicant respectfully submits that all 35 U.S.C. 112 rejections have been 21 addressed with claims 7, 11 and 13 amended and all rejections otherwise addressed by 22 comments and explanations. Your applicant has made a good faith effort to respond to the 3           The applicant has reviewed the Examiner's Action of May 26,2005 and has 4           addressed all 35 U. S .C. 1 12 rejections referred to therein. Accordingly, the applicant

5           has made a good faith attempt to meet each rejection as noted by the Examiner. The

12           OFFICE ACTION OF JUNE 3, 2005

13           The Office Action of June 3, 2005 was responded to by the applicant on June 7,
